Non-Degree-Seeking Students

Application Deadlines:
- For Spring semester: December 20th
- For Summer semester: May 1st
- For Fall semester: August 14th

The non-degree application is for people that just want to take a course with the EDGE office. Please note that taking EDGE course(s) as a non-degree seeking student does not mean you will be admitted into a Master’s program.

Non-degree admission must be requested each semester. In order to be admitted as a non-degree seeking student, you must have a GPA of a 3.0 or higher. Students must receive a letter grade of a B or better in their courses as a non-degree student to continue in the program each semester. Only a limited number of credits taken in this status can be counted towards a master's degree. This number varies within each department. If you attend to apply to a master’s degree program it is advisable to apply to graduate school during your first semester as a non-degree seeking student. You should also check with your department to see what their policy is on transfer of credits from this status. It is your responsibility to make sure that your courses will transfer.

- Submit the non degree application in ISIS.
  You will need to go to the drop down in Program Information and select “The College of Engineering – FEEDS/EDGE Program”. This will avoid delays in processing your application. If you want to claim Florida residency for tuition purposes, you must provide the documentation that supports residency at the same time you submit the non-degree application.
- When an admission decision is made, you will receive an email notification. This email will include your 8 digit UF ID and further instructions on how to complete your registration.
